Picturing Modernism Moholy Nagy And

László Moholy-Nagy was a Hungarian painter and photographer as well as a professor in the Bauhaus school. He was highly influenced by constructivism and a strong advocate of the integration of technology and industry into the arts. The art critic Peter Schjeldahl called him "relentlessly experimental" because of his pioneering work in painting, drawing, photography, collage, sculpture, film, theater, and writing. He also worked collaboratively with other artists, including his ...

The one exception is Eleanor Hight's Picturing Modernism, set most elegantly in Helvetica. This study of Moholy-Nagy's photography illuminates an aspect of his work that has been largely neglected or subordinated to his sculpture and painting; moreover, Hight uses his 'abstract photography', rather than his sculptures, to rescue Moholy-Nagy from the easy labels of formalism.
